A Carmel Family's Christmas In The Days Before Yesterday

BY BETTY HASKELL HOUSE

Always fall comes on with the smell of rain blown up the dusty summer; September and October are golden months, but after Thanksgiving the rain comes down in earnest. The ground is soaked and spongy, dead pine needles are heaped rain-red along the streets, gulls wheel inland and storms break over the Pacific in the early dusk. December begins to shape toward Christmas.

The boys who lived in our neighborhood were as brothers to my sister Jane and me and sons to my mother and father. Allen and John lived across the street, and Jack and Dick in back of us; their mothers worked, their fathers were away; they used our house almost as much as we, and they were very much a part of our growing up and of Christmas.

It was made up of many things —all the familiar traditions repeated year after year till they became a part of every Christmas, but it was more than that. Christmas was rain, and candles, and the smell of redwood greens in a warm room.

In the evenings there was a rag rug before the door for umbrellas and muddy boots, and wet wood steamed on the hearth. There would be a familiar double knock at the door and the boys would drift in to help crack nuts for homemade candy, and to fight over who got to lick the pans. The kitchen was thick and sweet with the smell of boiling milk and sugar, of vanilla and butter and melting chocolate. We used to pop corn and drink mulled cider, and play cards, and plan, a month too soon, for salmon fishing when the river broke through the sand bar to the sea.

Pencilled lists for gifts and cards grew long, there were whispered consultations in corners and curiously onesided telephone conversations. Tissue paper and ribbons were strewn on the table in the living room, boxes were packed to send away, the candy was cut and put in boxes, dark fragrant loaves of fruit cake were wrapped in cellophane and tied with silver ribbon and lavish bows.

Some morning when the sky cleared and the air was sharp and brisk, the sunlight brilliant, my Dad would take us all—Jane and me and the four boys up the Valley, across the river and up Robinson Canyon — magic name — to get Christmas greens. We'd park the car and the rickety trailer under sycamores and tall redwood trees and cross the cow-locked bridges to go upstream. We heaped long boughs of redwood on the trailer and tied on a young tree, candle-tipped with new buds, for our Christmas tree, and climbed the canyon slopes to gather holly and toyon and snow-berries. We would come home finally, singing carols, ridiculously off key, when the pines were silhouettes against the reddening sky and the cold settled deeper into night.

Christmas morning we would get up and sit in front of the fireplace before a roaring yule log that was kept going all day, and we would upend our stockings and shout with laughter and eat sweets before breakfast.

The last traditional rite was a pilgrimage on Christmas night, around the town to look at Christmas trees and outdoor decorations. There were frost and stars, and the soft glow of lights through steamed windows, and finally we drove down the long hill into town to get the best view of the lighted pine tree on the main street. Then we'd go home for hot-mulled wine and thin slices of fruitcake, and play cards or some new game, and then the boys would go home and Christmas was over for another year. "Good-night, and Merry Christmas!"

Merry Christmas. That's the way it was, that's the way it will be, days before yesterday and days after tomorrow—Christmas at our house.

Editor's note: The Christmases Mrs. House describes were in the 1930's. Her account was first published in the Pine Cone 21 years ago. When she married she moved away from Carmel. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haskell and must be remembering the warm and loving feeling they created in her girlhood home at Christmastime this year as she did two decades ago. Once again, Carmelites will share, through her writing, those days of long ago.

PARTY AT DORETTE'S

On Saturday, the traditional Christmas party of Dorette's kindergarten and piano studio was held. This year it was a student-teacher recital.

The music-kindergarten, with pupils three to five years old, performed several numbers using various rhythm instruments with piano accompaniment played by Susan Helm or Dorette Comings. Highlight was a nativity scene with Joan Davis as Mary, Parnell Pollioni, Joseph, and Heidi Comings, an angel. Dorette Comings played several selections by Bach, Gretchaninoff, and Schumann for the children and guests. The recital was followed by refreshments and presentation of Christmas gifts. This year Mrs. Comings and her pupils went downtown and the children picked their own Christmas gifts, the cards they would like to receive and the paper they wanted the gifts wrapped in. "This way they really like what they get," Dorette observes.

The children participating in the recital were Joan Davis, Terry Helm, Susan Helm, Laura Jones, Parnell Pollioni, Anne and Susie Reimer.

FIRST CARMEL CHRISTMAS —Richard Trueblood Photos.

Carmel's new fire chief, Bob Baker, in the picture above is holding his four-year-old son, Robert, while the young man puts the top on the Christmas tree in the Bakers' home on North Casanova Street. Watching the operation is Naoma, Fire Chief Baker's wife. Six-year-old Douglas Baker seems to be concerned with the project, too, but eight-year-old Barbara, is happily entranced with her own tree decorating. The Baker family is now settled in Carmel. They came here from San Diego County where Chief Baker headed the Borrego Springs Fire District. He was chosen to be head of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department by the city council in September.

Editor's Column

The dusk is agleam with glistening lights on Christmas trees in the homes and gardens of Carmel residents. All through the business district glow many-hued lights on other trees. Towering above them glitters the star atop the city's Christmas tree on Ocean avenue.

But all through Carmel there are other evergreen trees—1,000 pines just the size of Christmas trees. On top of each of them shines a star much more resplendent than any sparkling decoration on any other tree. These are invisible stars of hope for the future of Carmel.

The young trees have been planted by the city to ensure that the fragrance of pines will scent the air on warm days; the dark shapes of pines will be softly silhouetted against moonlight and starglow; and there will be myriad raindrops scintillating on pine needles when the sun comes out after storms.

In years to come, the young trees may grow beyond the tall pine on Ocean Avenue which sparkles with lights each Christmas time, but the invisible stars atop them then will be doubly luminous. They will be not only stars of hope but also stars of fulfilment . . . Carmel will still be the city which has striven to preseve its natural beauty, its most precious asset.

May the pines of Carmel bring joy to the hearts of all the townspeople this holiday season . . . and forever. M.L.

MERRY CHRISTMAS!

The Pine Cone staff wishes everybody a "Merry Christmas." We are Cliff and Mary Cook, Marjory Lloyd, Jane Vial, Lloyd Jenkins, Richard Trueblood, Ruth Woodward, Dean Smith, Phyllis Bullock and all the boys and girls who sell the paper every week.

PICTURE FOR PETRA

Last week, Carmel's city council posed for a group picture. The photograph was destined to be sent to Petra on the Island of Mallorca, Spain. Petra, which is the birthplace of Father Junipero Serra, is Carmel's sister city. Father Serra, founder of the California Missions, is buried in Carmel Mission Basilica.

Dear Santa,

Knowing how many separate desires you will have to fulfil on your rounds tomorrow night, the Pine Cone has endeavored to help you by preparing a master list of what the officials of Carmel, elected and appointed, want you to put in your sleigh. All the years you and your reindeer have been searching for our city hidden in trees, and without any bright lights for guidance, must have made you realize that we are "different." This difference is expressed most notably in the "city family's" wishes this year. Their gifts will take up very little of the precious space in your sack as you come down the city hall chimney because they are mostly abstract in character. We all will be listening for the jingle of your bells and to see if you received the following messages, some of them in verse. All the city officials wish you and everyone else in Carmel . . . "A MERRY CHRISTMAS."

MAYOR HERBERT BLANKS

Over a period of years I have wanted many things for Carmel—a master plan, unification, parking, a new police station, a management plan for the urban forest, a cultural center, acquisition of more greenbelt, stabilizing of transient uses and routing of traffic—to name a few. Some of these have been achieved; some are in the process of solution; and some will never be attained. But it appears to me that it is far too easy to think of specifics; far too easy, in the hustle and bustle of daily affairs and pressures, to lose sight of the real values that made Carmel what it is and should continue to be; far too easy, in short, to lose sight of the forest for the trees.

A few weeks ago a group of young people with their sponsors came before the city council and proposed that they be permitted to place a creche in Devendorf Plaza and to hold carol singings there during the ten days before Christmas. Since this group represented the young people of our local churches and most evidently stemmed from the heart, the council granted the request. I rather expected something a little bit on the order of what other communities would do. No one could have been more amazed than I when, instead of the conventional approach, there appeared the lovely driftwood piece with the symbolic Babe. Here was a truly Carmelish approach, one which showed imagination, creativity and originality. Regardless of whether the creators were of Carmel, they worked for Carmel, and demonstrated the type of feeling that has given Carmel its peculiar charm.

And so, for Carmel in 1966, in the year of its fiftieth birthday, I wish for a renewal of the Carmel Spirit. That Spirit which endorses walking, but eschews sidewalks; which believes in house names, but not house numbers; which makes a fetish of receiving its mail, but refuses to permit mail deliveries; and which gives dogs and trees equal rights with people.

With the spirit, Carmel is everything; without it, it is nothing. May Santa Claus endow Carmel and its good people with ample helpings of this special gift.

VICE MAYOR
JAMES BUFFINGTON

I have three Christmas wishes, the first urgent and the second and third for prompt consideration.

1. Approval of and commitments for the building of phase one of the municipal center at Fourth and Junipero; this includes the new police station and public works facilities.

2. A tree planting program that will not only insure our valuable urban forest but will also insure our valuable ocean views. This can be done with careful planting.

3. A program to purchase the few remaining natural canyons and wooded areas within the present city limits using the portion of the motel tax designated for greenbelt; such a program should be considered as soon as possible.

COUNCILMAN
EBEN WHITTLESEY

I would like you to bring to Carmel a continuance of the quality of service and loyalty we now enjoy from our city employees, also a growth of citizen participation in municipal affairs and — just as an afterthought, Santa— how about an oil well in the south playground at Sunset Center?

Members of the Carmel High School Choir are seen above singing at the ceremony which preceded the lighting of the official Carmel Christmas tree on the traditional date for this event, December 15. John Farr, high school music teacher directed the carolers.

Mayor Herbert Blanks welcomed townspeople gathered in Carmel Plaza on a frosty evening. He also gave the signal for Police Officer Walter Boyle to turn on the strings of lights on the towering pine at the intersection of Junipero and Ocean avenues. —Richard Trueblood Photo

Following the treelighting, the several hundred people present, including many children and teenagers, streamed across Ocean Avenue to Devendorf Plaza where the youth of Carmel churches had erected a creche composed of materials such as a large tree stump and carefully chosen stones.

Since then, nightly caroling has been led in the town park by teenagers from the five churches responsible for the creche.

Holiday For Tim Fry

Mrs. Marie V. Fry is delighted to have her son, Tim, here for his vacation from the University of Oregon, where he is a member of Chi Psi fraternity. Tim, a sophomore, has just received a promotion to cadet sergeant in the Army R.O.T.C. brigade at the university. Mrs. Fry and her son will celebrate Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Corsaut (Kathleen Fry) and the Corsauts' daughters, Jacqueline and month-and-a-half-old Susan.

Lights On At Tysons

The lights are on again in Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson's Carmel Point home now that they are here for the holidays from Amagansett, Long Island, their alternate residence. With them is Mrs. Paul V. Waldo of West Hampton Beach, who traveled and painted with Mrs. Tyson during an extended Mediterranean cruise. As a result of the artists' work on the tour, a collection of their water colors has just been exhibited at the Gainsborough Studio in New York.

Colorado Students Home

Two girls from Carmel who are enrolled at Colorado Woman's College in Denver are home for Christmas vacation with their parents. They are Gloria Gleichner, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Gleichner, and Melody Prine, daughter of Lieutenant Colonel (USA ret.) and Mrs. Glynn L. Prine.

From the University of Colorado in Boulder have come Terre Stier, Tina Didrichsen and Marilyn Haber. Terre's brother, Dudley, is also home from Stanford for Christmas at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stier.

Marilyn is enjoying catching up on news with her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haber of Carmel Valley, and her brother, Warren, and looking forward to seeing her sister, Anne, who arrives from San Francisco tomorrow night.

Ciji Ware Here

Bubbling over with enthusiasm for her work, New York City, and countless other things, irrepressible Ciji Ware is home for a vacation with her parents, the Harlan Wares. Ciji, who was production assistant and contestant interviewer for the NBC television show "Fractured Phrases," (the Gallatin Powers' daughter, Sandra, appeared on it this week), is now researcher, reporter and assistant to Harry McCarthy, producer of NET'S "Dollars and Sense" program. Research for the series on consumer education by the educational television station Ciji finds fascinating.

Christmas Eve, the Wares will hold a slumber party for their grandchildren, Paul, Katy and Andrew Volmensky. The following morning, the household will transfer operations to Salinas for Christmas at the home of Talik and Joy Volmensky, the Ware's son-in-law and daughter.

Anti-Moping Alliance

Four Carmel families, each with one of their children far away, have hit on a splendid antidote for Christmas "blues"—a progressive Christmas dinner. Sharing in the festivities will be Judge and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, with their daughters Lynn and Polly (Julie is on the wing with Pan American Airways); Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett and their son Jon, home from Princeton, where he is in his senior year (Lieutenant j.g. Mike Raggett, USN, is at sea from his home base in Honolulu aboard the nuclear submarine U.S.S. Plunger); Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein, with their daughter, Donna, who is on vacation from Chico State College (John Durein is away in the Navy); and Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Wilson and their daughter, Sherri (their daughter Nicki, whose marriage on Sunday to Lieutenant j.g. Michael McMahan is reported elsewhere in this issue, is in Hawaii on her honeymoon).

For all of these old friends, whose children have grown up and attended Carmel schools together, it will be day of reminiscence and one to drink a toast or two to the welfare of the absent family members.

For the first time in four years, Mrs. Jean McConnell is having a chance to enjoy her grandchildren, Rendia, Terry, Judy and Kathy McConnell, who have arrived from Huntsville, Alabama, with their parents, RDC Barry L. McConnell (USN) and Mrs. McConnell to spend Christmas in Carmel. After the holidays, Chief McConnell reports for his new assignment aboard a ship operating off the coast of Vietnam. His wife and the children plan to make their home here until his return next summer.

Palms Instead Of Pines

Palm fronds instead of pine boughs will be waving above the heads of Mr. and Mrs. James Newmarch this holiday season. The Newmarches flew to Honolulu this morning en route to Kailua, Hawaii, where Mrs. A. Ray Hacker, an old friend and seven-year Island resident, has offered them her beach house "for as long as they wish." It is located, they understand, not far from the interesting Mormon-sponsored Polynesian Village.

The couple plan, mostly, just to be lazy, but visits to some of the other islands will be included in their trip. They also expect to drop in on the Walter Stueflotens at Kona Plantation.

Shown above following their wedding at Highlands Inn Chapel on November 25 are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Edward Haff, the former Ethelynd Marie Walls of Carmel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Walls of Atascadero.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length sheath gown of chiffon brocade over satin, fashioned with an overskirt, and carried a bouquet of white gardenias and carnations.

Her matron of honor, Mary Thorson of Carmel Valley, was attired in an orange and gold brocade dress with which she carried bronze chrysanthemums.

Commander William Haff of Norton Air Force Base served as his brother's best man.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sieve of Carmel.

Born and raised in Carmel, the new Mrs. Haff is the granddaughter of Mrs. Mary O. Walls and of Mr. Edmond Capon of Carmel. She graduated from Carmel High School in 1958, Monterey Peninsula College in 1963 and Hartnell College Vocational Nursing program in 1965.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Nellie Haff of Carmel and the grandson of Mrs. Lucia Klady of Lorain, Ohio. Following graduation from Lorain High School in Ohio, Jack served in the U.S. Air Force, later studying at Monterey Peninsula College, where he graduated in 1963. He is now attending McGeorge College of Law in Sacramento and is employed by the California State Department of Justice as a fingerprint examiner.

The young couple are making their home in Sacramento.

Morehouses Were Here

Ex-Carmelites Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morehouse were in town from Walnut Creek for a few days last week, just in time to catch the tree lighting ceremony and the pinata party at Su Vecino court Wednesday. The same evening, they invited a few old friends, the Cliff Cooks, the Lloyd Weers and the August Nietos, for cocktails at their lodgings.

Children Of Monterey Peninsula Create Christmas Story Murals

The first annual Children's Christmas Art Show, "Mural Magic," began December 12 at Casa Manana in Monterey. Joe Danysh directed this project in community cooperation.

The outdoor exhibition presents 25 large mural-size panels depicting the Christmas story created by children from 20 public and parochial schools in Monterey, Seaside, Pacific Grove, Carmel and Marina. The project had the support of the superintendents of the school districts participating, as well as the art supervisors and art faculty of the schools involved. In addition, a number of individuals and companies volunteered to assist in making this a truly community participation project.

Volunteers assisting Mr. Danysh were Colonel Frederick Liebricht of Pebble Beach, Catherine Christopher of Pacific Grove, Eugene Hamill and J. O. Handley of Carmel and Bill Smith of Louis Lighting and Electric Co. All materials were supplied by members of the Peninsula business community. Lumber, paint, plywood panels and electrical materials were contributed to the schools by Sherwin Williams Paint Co., Hayward Lumber Co., Tynan Lumber Co., H & H Supply, Work Lumber Co., Abinante Music Co., Howard Brunn, Monterey Paint Store, Ets-Hokin and Galvan and the Metropolitan Furniture Co. of San Francisco.

Mr. Danysh's interest in developing children's art began in 1929 when he first became acquainted with the work of Chizek in this field in Czechoslovakia. Chizek pioneered the philosophy of free expression in the art of the young child.

Mr. Danysh taught and lectured on the subject of children's art and, with Ansel Adams, presented the pioneer exhibition of children's art at the Adams-Danysh Gallery in San Francisco in 1932.

The Children's Art Show in the patio at Casa Manana will continue throughout the holiday season and will be lighted for evening viewers. Joe Danysh expresses the hope that the Children's Christmas Art Show will develop into a traditional observance of the season to take place in future years in the public parks of the various communities of the Peninsula.

For 47 Years, One Christmas Card Has Brought Joy To Two Brothers, This Year Its Greeting Is For Us All

"Tis the season of good will
Joy bells now are ringing
May their chimes bring golden times
Set your heart to singing."

For 47 years, a Christmas card with the above wish circulated between two brothers, Edgar and Oscar Wesley. In April, Oscar died and Edgar, this year, is keeping up the Yuletide custom by sending the card's greeting to all persons of this community.

Edgar Wesley, for two years has been a resident of Hacienda Carmel in Carmel Valley. Forty-nine years ago, he and his wife, Fay received a Christmas card from friends. At Christmas time the next year (1917), Edgar sent it to his brother, Oscar, writing on it that the card was "too nice to throw away." Oscar agreed with this sentiment and in 1918 sent it back to Edward with the comment, "Ditto."

So the tradition started. The card, in 1965, shows its age a trifle. On the front cover is a line drawing of a grandfather clock garlanded with holly. On the two inner pages is a complete record of the exchanges between the brothers . . . "Edgar to Oscar, 1917," up to "Oscar to Edward, 1964."

Sometime in these 47 years, one of the brothers wrote, "Selah" after the message in verse printed in script type on another inner page.

Edgar and his brother Oscar, his elder by two years, went to prep school together in Kentucky. (This school is now Union College and a few years ago conferred an honorary degree on Edgar). Oscar did not go on to college immediately. He taught school before entering Baldwin-Wallace College in a suburb of Cleveland, Ohio. Edgar entered the same college the same year. The brothers roomed together for the entire four years they studied at Baldwin-Wallace and graduated together in 1914.

After graduation, both became college professors. Oscar taught sociology at Syracuse University in New York State before continuing his career at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia. He retired ten years ago and went to live in Seal Beach, California, where he died last Spring.

Edgar began his career as professor of education and history at the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis. He retired in 1959 and came to live in Los Altos which was to be his home until he and Mrs. Wesley moved to Carmel Valley.

But although Edgar "retired," he has not given up his life work. He calls himself a "tramp professor." First, he "filled-in" at Stanford University for five years, then retired again. Since then, he has taught, for periods of varying length, at UCLA, Texas, Michigan and Southern Illinois universities, also Ball State in Indiana. Last summer he taught at the University of Wisconsin.

All through the careers of both Oscar and Edgar, also their retirement, the Christmas card went back and forth. "We laughed every time," Edgar says of the almost half-century yearly exchange. This year, he could not send it to Oscar, so he brought it to the Pine Cone in order that the Christmas card might carry its happy wish for the forty-ninth year . . . this time to the community. And this year the inscription will be "Edgar to Carmel, 1965."

May it, "Set your heart to singing. Selah!"

Henry Cowell

Word has been received of the recent death of Henry Cowell, 68, a composer who spent much time in Carmel during his youth and has visited here often since. He married the former Sidney Robertson whom he met here during the 1930's. His death occurred in his home in Shady, New York, situated in the Catskill Mountains.

Henry Cowell's early compositions were distinguished by his use of tone clusters. He composed over 800 works and was busy with his 29th symphony at the time of his death.

In 1958, Henry Cowell was one of five American composers invited to the American Symphony League conductors' workshop at Asilomar where one of his works was studied and performed. His symphonies have been played by nearly all the major orchestras in this country, also in Europe.

MAURICE STONEY RETIRES NEXT WEEK

Two days after Christmas, Maurice Stoney, superintendent of mails at Carmel post office, will retire. He joined the post office staff in 1928. At that time it was situated on Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh and served 800 boxes, no rural routes. Today, the Carmel post office services 5,400 boxes and three rural routes of 600 boxes each and the staff, during the past 37 years, has increased from five to 35 persons.

But Maurice Stoney has seen many more changes come to Carmel since he first visited the town in 1915.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Stoney, he was born in Ogden, Utah. During his childhood, his sister, Merle, became engaged to Lewis E. Lewis, a young Carmel man who was working in Ogden. They were married and came to live in Carmel. When their first child, Carlyle, was about to be born, Mrs. Stoney came to visit her daughter and brought Maurice, his sister, Norma, and a brother, Paul, with her. They returned home with such glowing accounts of Carmel that the next year Mr. and Mrs. Stoney came here for a two-months vacation accompanied by their five children still at home. The following year, when Maurice was nine years old, the Stoney family settled in Carmel. This was 1917.

"Carmel was a lot of fun then, very quiet, primitive in many comfortable ways with a population of 700 persons," Maurice recalls.

His father built many of the streets in Carmel, "gravel in those days," Maurice says, also had a wood business here.

SCHOOL BUS—NO BRAKES

Young Maurice attended Sunset School and went on to Monterey High School. Immediately after he graduated, he joined the Carmel post office staff.

During his high school years, Maurice caddied at Pebble Beach golf course, played in a dance orchestra and drove a school bus from Carmel to Monterey.

He was a sophomore when he became the driver of the White bus, an open vehicle with the seats placed crosswise and a touring car top. Each school day, this bus transported 20-24 boys over the hill and back . . . and it had no brakes.

"Looking back, it was horrifying, safetywise," Maurice remembers. First he had to crank the vehicle, quite a task. Once started, if he had to stop, he had to employ reverse gear and, he says, "we would always develop an air lock coming over Carmel Hill." Consequently, Maurice designated two students to put blocks under the wheels when this happened. In this way he prevented the bus from rolling back to Monterey before he could get it going again.

"We also took this bus to games in King City," he remembers.

But even more remarkable, was that he had taught himself to drive just months before he took over the bus. He did this in the Sierra, using a delivery truck belonging to the man he was working for . . . and unbeknownst to the owner. This was his only driving experience before he became the school bus driver.

MAURICE'S ORCHESTRA

His dance orchestra experience in high school led to his having his own eight-piece orchestra, the Tenor Tones, in later years. Playing was "Freddy Martin type" and weekend engagements included the Bali Room at the U.S. Naval Postgraduate School for six months. Most of the members of the orchestra were music teachers in the public school systems of the Peninsula, including the late Art Holman, also Al Mendonsa, who is now leader of the local orchestra by the same name.

His saxophone playing led to a very difficult decision in 1929. Maurice was working in the New York City post office, also playing in a dance band which was offered a contract to play on a ship's world cruise.

"I settled for security and stayed with the post office department," Maurice remarks. He also played with Walter Kelsey's band at Del Monte Lodge.

After his year in New York, Maurice returned to the Carmel post office for five years then worked in the Colorado Springs post office for three years, also in the post office of Woods Cross, a suburb of Salt Lake City, for four years.

MARRIAGE TO SUE

In Colorado Springs, he met his wife Sue. They were married in Salt Lake City in 1938. In 1942 they came to Carmel and after three months in the post office here, Maurice joined the U.S. Navy. He served until December 1945 in the Marianas in the fleet post offices on Tinian, Guam and Saipan in a semi-security capacity employing codes instead of names for mailing destinations. His particular job, apart from the codes, was to check on all ships in port concerning the delivery of mail.

During this period, his wife, a graduate nurse, worked for the Red Cross blood donor program in Tableaux and scriptural readings by the Reverend David Hill, rector, will be interspersed in the story.

Party Plans

By Phyllis Jervey

People, Parties, Places! At the Ahwahnee Hotel in Yosemite the Bracebridge Dinner highlights Christmas Day. Masterminded by our own Ansel Adams, a pageant is presented based on Washington Irving's account of a typical Yorkshire Christmas dinner. Taking place in the dining room it features music, costumes and an elaborate menu.

For the many who could not taste this spectacular event, we have planned an English Christmas dinner minus fanfare. We can picture the minstrels singing carols from a balcony at the far end of a Great Hall in the long ago. Lords and ladies gathered about the Wassail Bowle. This cheering drink used to be composed of warm ale and cream boiled with cloves, the topping called "lambs' wool" in the 17th and 18th centuries. Today it is a more simply made beverage but tradition is still observed.

THE WASSAIL BOWLE
(Serves 12)

6 baked apples; ½ tsp. nutmeg and cinnamon, each; 3 whole cloves; ½ cup sugar; 1 tbsp. grated lemon rind; 2 fifths sherry or muscatel wine. Add last 4 freshest eggs beaten separately.

Core the apples and peel down about 1 inch from stem end. Fill core cavities with sugar and bake in 350 F. oven until just tender but firm. Add spices, rest of sugar and lemon rind to wine and heat in double boiler. Fold beaten egg yolks into stiffly beaten whites. Add the hot wine liquid gradually, beating vigorously to froth the mixture. Place the baked apples in bottom of Wassail bowle (crystal or silver punch bowl) and pour hot liquid over them. Serve in warm mugs. Decorate edge of bowl with holly.

In the past, the Yule Log was lighted in the huge fireplace of the main lounge. Costumed, the page boys led the procession around the rotunda carrying the Grete Boar's Hede. Haunches of venison, suckling pig, crisp and smoking, "turtle doves and a partridge" were included with great roasted sirloins of beef. Finally came flaming plum puddings garnished with the green and red of holly branches. This sort of opulence is found today in such resorts as Harrison Hot Springs B.C. or Yosemite. All celebrate Christmas in the manner of Old England. Here is our own more practical rendition:

ENGLISH CHRISTMAS DINNER
Cream Sherry
Shrimp Bisque with Rum
Rolled Prime Ribs of Beef
Yorkshire Pudding
Creamed Onions
Pickled Beets . . . Cucumber Salad
Flaming Plum Pudding
Savouries
Fresh Fruits . . . Nuts
Coffee . . . Brandy
Port

SHRIMP BISQUE WITH RUM
(Serves 6)

Shrimps are known as prawns in England and are highly relished. And rum is also, especially in the English Navy when the men receive their daily ration.

Stir together 1 can condensed tomato soup with 1 can condensed pea soup until well blended. Do this in top of double boiler. Add 1 lb. fresh or frozen cleaned and boiled shrimps. Bring to a slow boil. When heated through, add light rum to taste. For children serve the new canned bisque of tomato soup as is.

Follow your own favorite recipe for the boned and rolled prime ribs, making sure to have some of it very rare for the men in your life.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

In England, Yorkshire pudding is the traditional teammate with roast of beef. Too often, over here, this superb non-sweet "pudding" is soggy and flat. The following recipe from an old English family results in a crisp and brown foolproof production.

1½ cups sifted flour; 1 tsp. each, salt, white pepper and powdered nutmeg; 4 eggs; 1½ cups scalded milk. Beef pan drippings.

Mix together the flour and seasonings. To this add the beaten eggs, one at a time. Add the scalded milk, little by little, beating with rotary beater until smooth. Cover with a cloth and chill in refrigerator at least 2 hours. When roast is removed from oven, transfer ½ cup beef pan drippings into shallow wide pan, putting it into oven to become sizzling. Beat chilled batter vigorously, pouring it into pan of hot fat (which should be ½ inch deep). Bake in 450 F. oven 15 minutes, or until pudding has risen. Then reduce heat to 300 F. and bake 15 minutes longer. To serve, cut it into squares and place around roast on heated platter.

Christmas dinner without plum pudding is unthinkable in England and the British Commonwealth. Brought to the table blazing with burning brandy and decorated with holly it is warming to soul

Fishermen File Pollution Complaint Against Moss Landing Industrial Firm

Thirty-nine Moss Landing commercial fishermen were listed as plaintiffs in a complaint for injunction and damages for nuisance filed against Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation at the Monterey County courthouse on December 9. A total of $800,000 in damages—$200,000 in general damages and $600,000 in punitive damages—was asked.

Water pollution from industrial waste discharged into Moss Landing bay and harbor, and air pollution from dust and other noxious substances ejected into the air by the defendant's kilns, ovens and furnaces have been cited as the two causes of action. For each cause of action, $100,000 has been asked for general damages to the plaintiffs' property and $300,000 per action for punitive damages for interference with the comfortable, reasonable and proper enjoyment of the plaintiffs' property, business and everyday activities was also requested.

Sam L. Foster, attorney for the plaintiffs, stated that the propellers, drive shafts and bearings of fishing boats have been incrusted and damaged by the materials from the industrial discharge in Moss Landing harbor and that dust and other noxious substances deposited on the boats have corroded paint and other protective coatings. Notices to the defendants asking for a remedy to both situations have been ignored, he stated.

He also stated the plaintiffs' use and enjoyment of the waters of Moss Landing harbor and bay have been unreasonably lessened, restricted and obstructed by pollution from the Kaiser plant.

This action by the Moss Landing fishermen, citing the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corporation as a public nuisance, received the wholehearted endorsement of the Six Cities Fund Committee, a group currently involved in legal action to bring the Humble Oil refinery at Moss Landing to a referendum.

Ben Rees, a spokesman for the Six Cities group stated, "The inability to effectively control such existing polluting industries as Kaiser is one of the major factors in our opposition to the establishment of any other dirty industries in this area. We are delighted to see the fishermen take this step to protect their industry and they can count on the wholehearted support of the Six Cities Fund Committee."

CHRISTMAS VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. George C. Rossner of West Los Angeles will spend Christmas in Carmel and watch their grandchildren, Peter, Lesley and Jennefer Lloyd open packages under the Christmas tree in the home of the children's parents, Francis P. (Skip) and Sue Lloyd. Jennefer, however, may need a little assistance as she is only two months old.

and body. Today it's so easy to find superior canned plum puddings which save time and work. Always serve with brandy hard sauce.

Savouries are served in British homes after dessert. They resemble our appetizers and canapes and counteract the cloying sweetness of rich desserts. The simplest savourie is to spread toast rounds with a sharp Old English cheese and run these under the broiler until puffy. Other favorites are toast points spread with anchovy paste, decorated with capers and chopped hard cooked egg.

The twelve days of Christmas, from Christmas Eve when the tree is lighted until Twelfth Night (January 6) when the tree is taken down and burned, are joyous memories to retain throughout the new year.

The next issue of Party Plans will describe "Los Tres Reyes" or "Three Kings" celebrating the climax of the holiday season in Spain. Join us for Paella and other Spanish specialties.

Christmas Observances In Churches Of Carmel

directed by Mrs. James Farlinger, will sing a special anthem, "Still, Still, Still" arranged by Luboff.

COMMUNITY CHURCH

A lovely creche, fashioned from uncarved driftwood from the collection of Mrs. Raymond L. Graybill, will be shown at the Christmas Eve service of the Community Church of the Monterey Peninsula, in River School.

The candlelight service at 7 p.m., will be opened by the presiding Boy Bishop, 12-year-old Parker Johnson, after a half-hour musical prelude presented by Mrs. W. H. Ballard, harpist, Mrs. C. K. Carruth, guest organist, and the choir under the direction of John W. Farr. Special music will include an Austrian carol by Mrs. Carruth, "Darkness is Falling," and Mrs. W. R. Johnson's contralto solo, "Cantique de Noel," with violin obligato by Mrs. Milton H. Shutes. A tableau presented by children of the church school will have background music from Bach's Christmas Oratorio.

The public is invited to the service of this non-denominational church. Church school classes will be held as usual on December 26 when Bible Sunday will be observed. Mr. Peter Verkuyl will be guest organist for the 11 a.m. worship service with Christmas music.

The Inter Christian College Fellowship has planned a brunch for college age members and friends of the church at the Estrada Adobe, Monterey, on Tuesday at 10:30 a.m.

ST. PHILIP'S LUTHERAN

The Highlands Inn Chapel will be the setting for the Christmas Eve service of St. Philip's Lutheran Church. The service will be held at 8:30 p.m. It will be a service of candlelight and carols with a sermonette entitled, "God's Christmas Gift," by the Reverend J. Bernhard Bretheim, pastor of the new church.

The mid-evening hour has been chosen in order that families with children may attend. Many of the familiar carols will be included in the service. Special anthems will be sung by the choir of the church under the direction of Richard Sheere. The service will be open to the public who may also want to take in the traditional Yule Log ceremonies at the inn earlier in the evening.

St. Philip's Lutheran will not have a Christmas Day service, but will observe the Second Day of Christmas on Sunday at regular Sunday worship services at 10:00 a.m. at Carmel Middle School. The message by the pastor at this service will be, "The Mysteries of Christmas." In a further effort to have Christmas linger a little longer, the choir will sing a group of Christmas anthems as a part of this service. Families who have no other church home in this area are welcome to worship with this new Lutheran congregation of the American Lutheran Church.

Walter Dixon

Word has been received of the death at Plymouth, California, of Walter F. Dixon, a resident of Carmel for over 20 years. Funeral services for Mr. Dixon, who died on December 9 after a period of failing health, were held in Jackson, with members of the local Masonic Lodge participating. In accordance with his wishes, burial took place in Plymouth, the Sierra foothill town he so loved.

He was a native of Roseburg, Oregon, where he was born March 21, 1885.

With his wife, Grace, Mr. Dixon was the owner of the former Winona Lodge, now Trevvett Court, for some 20 years.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Frank Hopper of Santa Cruz; a granddaughter, Mrs. Winona Avila, and a great-granddaughter, Grace Elaine Avila, of Greenbelt, Maryland; four sisters, Mrs. Adolph Kelterborn, Miss Madge Dixon and Mrs. Ethel MacKenzie, all of Sierra Madre, and Mrs. Dorothy Weaver of Fresno; a brother, James Dixon of Bly, Oregon; and several nephews and nieces.

Family Addition

A new resident of Carmel Highlands is Suna Lin Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Price, who was born at Community Hospital a week ago today. At home the new baby is the center of much curiosity and attention from her brother, Lee, and her sisters, Jennifer and Christina.

San Francisco and eventually headed the Oakland technical unit.

After the war, Maurice returned to the Carmel post office and has stayed there for the past 20 years. During this time, he and Sue have had two children, Kati, now a freshman at MPC, and Lee, a sophomore at Carmel High School. Maurice, also, has built his house in the Eighty Acres at Vizcaino and Flanders from plans he drew himself. He also acted as his own contractor and did a great deal of the physical work of construction himself.

"I saved all my vacation time for this," he tells.

MORE BRIDGE PLAYING

Maurice and Sue Stoney are ardent bridge players. They run bridge clubs and "do a little teaching." After December 28, Maurice expects to increase his activities in this field for he will be retired.

He will remember the job he liked best—dispatching the mail—during his post office service which covers a span of 37 years and nine months, and except for 11 years, all in Carmel.

And as he says good-bye to Postmaster Fred Strong, he will remember Stella Vincent, William Overstreet, Irene Cator, Fred Bechdolt, Ernest Bixler, Alfred Mollner and Fred Mylar, all Carmel postmasters during his long career with the U.S. Post Office Department. And of the six Stoney children, who came from Utah to Carmel, only Maurice, his brother, Ronald, who lives in Carmel Valley, another brother, Paul, in Santa Barbara, and his sister Merle, "who led us all here," now are alive. Mrs. Lewis divides her time between Carmel, and San Francisco and her son whose birth first brought Maurice Stoney to Carmel, lost his life in World War II.

Weekend In Bakersfield

Christmas will be celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Morales of Carmel Point at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Luis Poire of Bakersfield, where they look forward to watching grandchildren David, Luis and Ninette opening their gifts. Mrs. Morales' son, Alberto Saldana, and her sister, Sra. Concha Torres, will accompany them for the festive weekend.

Catholic Daughters Met

The December meeting of Court Carmel Mission No. 1496, Catholic Daughters of America, was a gala event, with the members bringing beautifully wrapped gifts for Apache Indian children. This has been an annual project since it was learned that these descendants of a once-proud and strong people are among the poorest and most underprivileged.

Mrs. James McGrury, Grand Regent, took this occasion to thank the ladies who contributed cookies for the Gray Ladies in November; also Mrs. R. B. Stoney and Mrs. Roman Neumann and their committee, who prepared the annual dinner for servicemen at the U.S.O.

Mrs. Julius deVerra entertained at the piano and the members joined her to spend the rest of the evening in a songfest.

Fourteen Toasts

by *Jingle Belle

First raise that eggnog to
George Frederick Handel,—
At Christmas time, none
To him holds a candle.

Then a cup up to Bach,
Who's made us conjoint
In believing the morning stars
Sing counterpoint.

To amazing Mozart
Next a toast . . .
In the musical art
Many think he's the Most.

Drink deep to Beethoven,
The Voice of Democracy,—
Petted and abetted by Aristocracy.

To Clara's Schumann
Raise your punch,—
Most domestic Romantic
Of the bunch.

And now to that Grand Old
Rhapsodist, Brahms,
Snubbed by young moderns
But loved by their Moms.

Hold high your libation to
Pianist, Chopin,—
Candelabra-lit spellcaster
Second to no man.

Sip now to Liszt,
Virtuoso so fiery.
(Better by far not to Study his diary).

And to sociable Schubert,
A lyricist
Who could be turned on
By a laundry list.

To Ring leader, Wagner,
Toss off a wassail,—
First maestro to deal in the Super Colossal.

Raise a shimmering brew to
Claude Debussy,
Inspired by the land,
Melisande or the sea.

Quaff one to
Rachmaninoff,
Whose appeal's not the kind
That goes on and off.

Bend your elbow to
Bela Bartok,
At whose avant-garde bars
Many still balk.

To Prokofieff last,—
Mid Karl Marx Brothers,
He helps to make up for
Some of the others.

Carmelights by Piñon

This business about mispronouncing the name of Carmel's town plaza is really getting out of hand. A church bulletin recently announced that young people would set up a creche and sing carols in Diefendorf Plaza.

I'm only a nut but this I do know—the little park on Ocean Avenue between Junipero and Mission is named after one of the original developers of Carmel, Frank DEVENDORF. The d-e-v-e-n in his name rhymes with seven.

"Devvy" was a beloved person in Carmel. The plaza which bears his name is a memorial to his generosity and love of the town which he helped found with his partner, Frank Powers.

Let's stamp out the regrettable mispronunciation of his name which has spread through the city. It's true that there are not many people here nowadays who remember "Devvy" but those that do are angry when his name is so ignorantly twisted.

These days of modern education lead to the learning of a multitude of facts about everything. So much so that a ten-year-old lad I know has so much information on so many subjects right on his tongue's tip that he's been nicknamed "Cronkie"—short for Walter Cronkite—by members of his family.

Frances Studevant has provided, this Christmas, one of those touches which make Carmel lovably different. The front windows of the post office are festooned with lanterns she has made. Each decoration is created from a Kleenex box. There are not many cities where an employee of the post office devotes so much time and creativity to bringing joy to citizens.

An early Santa Claus . . . the Carmel Foundation Town House, bursting at the seams, served 44 turkey dinners on Thanksgiving Day and had to turn away a few disappointed friends. Unbeknown to the senior citizens, a lady who wishes to remain anonymous walked into the Town House, counted noses and wrote out a check to cover the cost of every single meal.

After months of traveling around the world, Dorothy von Meier is home in Carmel. All during her travels she has sent home reports in verse to members of the Carmel Planning Commission of which she is chairman. She composed her last poetic report after being at home a few days. It is printed below.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA

Oh, there's nowhere in the world that's as nice as Carmel
The things I've seen and the stories I could tell.
Tourists are supposed to like all the glitter
Of far away places, and leave a lot of litter—
But, it's the natives who throw down the orange peel;
Walk their dogs; spit; pick pockets and steal;
Who defile their church steps with scrawls and clutter
Who throw garbage at night into the gutter—
The lovely old buildings of Florence and Rome
Can hardly compare with those at home.
The broad sweeps of Paris and Avignon's towers,
London's majesty and all England's flowers
Are sights to inspire romance and pleasure,
As is the Orient's brilliant treasure.
The silks and golds and jewels rare,
The flamboyant trees and palaces there
Are gorgeous, if you remember to hold your nose
And remember to watch where you put your toes.
Guard your purse at the souvenir stand,
A blight and eyesore in every land
Cluttering the sidewalks, the street and the beach
Bringing gross lot bargains within everyone's reach.
It's wonderful to travel and be able to see
The incomparable sites that made history
But for weather and beauty and a place to BE
There's no where in the world like Carmel-by-the-Sea.

SHOP TALK WAS OUT

When teachers get together, talk is usually of teaching and school problems. It was not so on December 12, when Miss Dorothy Wright, vice principal of Carmel High School, entertained the women teachers and office staff members of the school at a lovely dinner party in her Rancho Rio Vista home. Miss Wright's annual party for her co-workers gives them a chance, as one guest remarked, to gather together and enjoy talking about something besides education.

There she will be joined by a son, George Ledyard Stebbins Jr., officer of admissions at California State College in Los Angeles. Both Edith and George are Carmel High graduates.

Mrs. Stebbins and her son will then go on to Corvallis, Oregon, to spend Christmas with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stebbins, and their children, Marcia, David and Danny. Robert, a fruit and nut tree expert, is an advisor in that field and also lectures at Oregon State College.

Suzann, their oldest daughter, and her husband, Martin Forster, will occupy the Pilots' home in their absence and provide companionship for Walt and Lois' younger daughter, Cindy. Since Martin was granted a long leave from his position as a ranger at Big Sur State Park, the Forsters have been traveling throughout the country and have just returned to join the family for the holidays.

Pines Dominate Tree Population Within The City

Pines far outnumber other trees in Carmel according to a report presented to the city council on December 14 by City Forester Hugh Smith. Oaks form the next largest category.

The report was the result of a forest survey started this summer. The survey measured the location, species, diameters, heights and problems of trees within the city limits.

The program will be continued next summer with a qualitative evaluation of each of these trees with respect to general condition, specific disease, site quality and special problems. Two weeks' work on this phase was completed last summer.

A year from now, Mr. Smith promises that work will be in progress on a management plan which will make specific recommendations for tree removals, replacements, maintenance and planting.

Purpose of the work undertaken under the direction of Mr. Smith is to ensure a healthy and continuing tree population in Carmel.

By means of a graph, Mr. Smith showed the council there are over 5,000 pines within the boundaries of the city; over 3,000 oaks; over 1,000 acacias; about 500 cypresses, 300 pittisporums and 125 toyons. Trees of other species total over 1,000.

Pines are divided into almost 2,000 which are 40-60 feet high; 1,500 which are 13-40 feet in height; a little over 500 nine feet high; slightly less than this 7-12 feet high; and 375 which are over 60 feet in height

CHRISTMAS AT BIG SUR

Above is the Nativity scene, created by Edythe Plamondon of Carmel, which is being displayed during the Christmas season at Nepenthe, Big Sur. The scene depicts the babe Jesus, Mary, Joseph, shepherds, a donkey, a sheep, a cow and doves. The main figures vary in size from 18 to 28 inches and are meticulously costumed in the period of Christ's birth.

Directors Of Carmel Little League Say 'Merry Christmas'

"Merry Christmas and a Wonderful 1966," say the directors and officers of the Carmel Little League to all persons who, in any way, supported the 1965 season of baseball for young boys.

"All Little League activity is completely dependent on big people to enable the little people to gain all there is from the program," remarks Horace "Flip" Jayne, president of the Carmel Little League for 1966.

The first meeting will be on January 10. Directors meeting on that date will be, in addition to Mr. Jayne, Bob Connell, vice president; Dick Duhring, treasurer; Bonnie Holbrook, secretary; Dick Colburn, player agent; Tom Argust, John Calcagno, Steve Canepa, Lloyd Cunningham, Al Hood, Neil Keefer, Gregg King, Dick Lawitzke, Walt Newman, Willis Shepard, Ross Smith, Tom Tousey and John Wecker.

Next year, the demand will be even greater than in the past for volunteer help such as umpires, scorekeepers and concession volunteers, Mr. Jayne announces. All parents are asked to find "some niche from which to help."

Both receipts and expenses for 1965 were higher than in previous years, Mr. Jayne reports. However, the Little League now has a new minor league field fenced and planted with work still continuing on it. This part of the program serves over 100 boys.

Carmel Little League financial report to date is as follows:

General Account Balance October 1, 1964, $781; Net Balance October 1, 1965, $1,237.88; Equipment Account Balance, October 1, 1964, $223.05; Net Balance October 1, 1965, $37.29.

Dear Santa . . .

ideas among the citizenry of Carmel; populace, commissions, city staff and elected officials. This is my greatest wish. Then, if you have room, Santa, more of the refreshing vivacity shown by the youth and clergy to revive the Christmas treelighting and caroling tradition.

SONNET FOR A SAGACIOUS SANTA

My earnest wish and greatest hope, as one
Of Carmel's city councilmen: That art
May flourish, trees may grow, and heart
And hand and wisdom here devise for every one
Such deeds as hew to Carmel's needs, so none
Can spoil, upset, undo the good that all
Those ardent others in the years now all
But gone, have thought and dared to do, and done.
Quaint, intimate, charming are words still used
To describe ingredients Carmel fused.
Gross views, gross acts, gross intents—all denied
Must be, if Carmel's not to say it died.
Challenge to the world, challenge to us all:
Arise now, Carmel, to your spirit's call!

—GUNNAR NORBERG

PLANNING COMMISSION CHAIRMAN

Dear Santa: May this next year be
One of peace and tranquility;
No public squabbles or zoning laws
Nor mutiple uses, please, Mr. Claus;
Deliver us from auctions and pitchman's ware;
And the woodsman's axe, leaving ground bare;
From monoliths of glass and brick
With gimmicks and architectural trick.
Discourage that pseudo-arty glitter
And free our sidewalks of doggy litter.
Bring us a perfect Sunset plan
So, perhaps, a big foundation man
Will bring us funds, to help support
A place that's worthy of Carmel's art.
Protect our lovely crescented beach
From the southland developer's reach.
And, bring us time for contemplation
Of Mother Nature's wondrous creation;
Each tree, each stone, each crashing wave
That God, so trusting, to us gave.
Remind us all, content to be
Fortunate citizens of Carmel-by-the-Sea.
(And I had the chimney cleaned, just in case!)

DOROTHY VON MEIER
Chairman

ARTS COMMISSION CHAIRMAN

The Arts Commission being needy,
A longish list could make.
But loathe to seem excessive greedy.
Could just a grand piano take.

A group of eager volunteers
To help with plans we'd ask
For celebrating fifty years
Of cityhood's our task.

BARBARA NORBERG,
Chairman

SUNSET COMMISSION

Peace and joy, open hearts and open minds. Love of the past and hope for the future. Rest and quiet, work and enthusiasm. A beach filled with walkers, a library filled with readers, schools filled with scholars, churches filled with worshippers, sky filled with stars, air filled with freshness, and hearts filled with love. These we ask for Carmel's Christmas.

Peter R. Dyer, chairman

CITY CLERK

The nicest Christmas present I can think of right now is to get rid of the laryngitis and bronchial infection which has kept me at home in bed, on doctor's orders, for the past two weeks but that won't do Carmel much good.

Hugh Bayless

Ed. Note: Oh yes it will, Hugh! We all miss you at city hall.

CITY FINANCE OFFICER

If I might make one request of Father Christmas, I would ask that he bring to Carmel the gift of a spirit of co-operation, between ALL of its people, to produce a workable and working plan for the development of Sunset Center.

Art Plaxton

CITY ATTORNEY

"A humbled Humble" is the Christmas wish of City Attorney William B. Burleigh and he drew a picture, Santa, on his note. It shows a stocking with a smokestack in it. It must be the Moss Landing refinery chimney that he hopes will never be built.

POLICE CHIEF KLAUMANN

I WANT A NEW POLICE STATION WHERE THE DEPARTMENT CAN HAVE ROOM ENOUGH TO MOVE AROUND IN.

FIRE CHIEF BAKER

This is what the fire department wants Santa Claus to bring them for Christmas.

1. A central heating unit for the fire station.
2. Home alarm receivers for the other half of the firemen.
3. A new Cadillac ambulance to replace the present worn out Pontiac.
4. Just one "yes" vote, for a change, from Councilman Norberg.
5. Hose washing and drying facilities at ground level.
6. A new floor in cheerful color, in entrance hall and stairway, with safety treads.
7. American La France Corporation to deliver our new fire truck before the 35-year-old Mack quits altogether.
8. A new roof and deck covering for the building.
9. Just one more year out of the old Ford pick-up.

CARMEL FIRE STATION CHRISTMAS PARTY

Tonight, all children of members of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department who are under ten years old will be guests of the firemen. Santa Claus will visit as he does each of the annual children's Christmas parties at the fire house. He will have a present in his sack for the 23 youngsters expected to be present. Paul Artellan is head of the committee which arranged the 1965 festivities.

SUNSET COMMISSION

The Sunset Commission will meet on Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in city hall.

CITY HALL TO BE CLOSED

Carmel city hall will be closed tomorrow and all day on December 31.

DID ANYONE FIND THIS HAT?

104 Catalina
NAS Lemoore
California

My husband and I and our three children were shopping in Carmel on December 6. We stopped in shops along Dolores Street between Fifth and Seventh and somewhere—either in a shop or, perhaps, along the street — my eight-year-old boy lost his souvenir Viet Nam Ranger hat. Since his father brought it home recently after his cruise on the "Coral Sea," the hat was a most treasured possession.

Any help in finding the hat will be most appreciated.

Cordially,
Mrs. Ronald H. Caldwell

STREET SUPERINTENDENT

The street department is pretty happy and can't think of anything for Santa Claus to bring this year it's been treated so well. So "Merry Christmas" to everybody from the street department gang.

Nicki Wilson Is Married

On Sunday, Neal (Nicki) Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Neil Wilson of Carmel, became the bride of Lieutenant j.g. Michael Lisenby McMahan (USNR), son of Mr. and Mrs. Robbert Otto McMahan of Pebble Beach. Fragrant greens and lighted tapers adorned All Saints' Episcopal Church for the afternoon ceremony which was performed by the Reverend David Hill.

Nicki, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a full-length A-line gown of white peau de soie, fashioned with a scoop neckline, glove point sleeves and chapel length train. The bodice and sleeves were enhanced with appliques of Chantilly lace. A Spanish mantilla, bought by the bride in Barcelona, covered her dark hair, and she carried a bouquet of butterfly orchids. An heirloom pendant of diamonds, pearls and sapphires, loaned by the bridegroom's sister, Marsha McMahan, carried out the tradition of something old, borrowed and blue.

Sharon (Sherri) Wilson was her sister's maid of honor and Miss McMahan was a bridesmaid. They were gowned alike in long Empire sheaths of Christmas green velvet and carried chartreuse spider chrysanthemums.

Lieutenant j.g. Jack Kauneckas (USNR) served as best man. Seating the guests were Lieutenant j.g. Albert Huff (USNR), Lieutenant Richard Miles (USAR), Breckenridge Thomas and Jay Erbes III.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Wilson chose a dress and coat ensemble of pale gold Italian silk.

Mrs. McMahan was attired in a two-piece costume of pink souffle brocade with which she wore a matching hat and raspberry colored accessories.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception at the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club, festive with beautiful Christmas decorations for the occasion.

A third generation Carmelite, the bride is a graduate of Carmel High School and Stanford University, where she also earned her master's degree this year. While at Stanford, Nicki studied for a year at Stanford-in-Florence, Italy. She was a member of Cap and Gown, senior women's honorary society, and Pi Lambda Theta, national honorary scholastic society. Since the beginning of the Fall term, Nicki has been teaching in the Long Beach elementary schools.

Her husband attended Bullard High School in Fresno and graduated in 1964 from Stanford University, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity, a member of the Stanford sailing team and the Stanford rifle team and N.R.O.T.C. After many months in the Pacific, Lieutenant McMahan has just returned aboard his ship, the U.S.S. Belle Grove.

When the couple returns from an Hawaiian honeymoon they will make their home in Long Beach until the bridegroom's tour of duty is over in July.

Police Investigating Robbery At Pine Inn

Carmel police are continuing their investigation of the robbery at Pine Inn Sunday night, when three men, one with a revolver, made off with two days' dining room receipts, approximately $2,000.

The men entered the empty dining room as unobtrusively as they left later, through a west side door, and unquestionably knew the routine of the dining room personnel, location of light switches and the safe, which they forced Mrs. Ernie Quiambo, an employee, to open. The robbers then took Mrs. Quiambo to a small room where they had previously bound her husband and taped his mouth, did the same to her and tied her to a chair. As soon as Mr. Quiambo was able to extricate himself, he gave the alarm to the desk clerk who called police at 10:37 p.m.

The Quiambos described the bandits as Negroes, between the ages of 20 and 30, and of medium height, with lines painted or drawn across their faces to obscure their features.

TOWN HOUSE PROGRAM

"Gift of the Waters" will be presented in color slides by Mrs. Sholie Brown on Wednesday at 1:30 and 3 p.m. at the Carmel Foundation Town House. "Gift of the Waters" is an historical Indian pageant presented annually at Thermopolis, Wyoming, and depicts the Indian of the Wind River reservation giving to the white man the Big Horn Hot Springs, largest mineral hot springs in the world.

Tea will be served at 4 p.m. and all interest persons are welcome.

News Of Jane Martin

Jane Martin, who "adores" being at Stanford in Italy near Florence, is having an exciting holiday—Christmas in London, a visit to Amsterdam, and New Year's Eve in Paris. According to her mother, Mrs. Eileen Aldwell Martin, Jane has already done a good bit of traveling, having visited Austria and Czechoslovakia as well as other parts of Italy.

An enchanting note about the Christmas season is Jane's description of the Italian shepherds who, seeking to escape the winter cold, appear in the city streets in their rough leather garments. If they stop before one's house to serenade with bagpipes and flutes, the occupants must ask them in for a meal.

Mrs. Martin plans to get together for Christmas with her brother, Carmel High instructor Alan Aldwell, since her other daughter and her son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McGregor, are unable to get out from Ann Arbor. Bob is a student at the University of Michigan and Mary McGregor is employed in the university's sociology department.

With his father, Oliver Martin, in Ketchum, Idaho, is Mrs. Martin's son, John, who writes plaintively of the lack of snow for skiing.

Caroling In The Highlands

As in past years, the joyful voices of the Carmel Highlands "troop," led by Mrs. Cynthia Williams, will be heard throughout their neighborhood.

John Williams is here for the holidays from the University of California with Gregson Davis, "almost family," who is studying for his Ph.D. at U.C., and Molly Williams is returning from a ski trip in time to join the family for Christmas. Others who will share Christmas dinner at Mrs. Williams' home are Don and Rosa Doner and their daughter, Tasha, and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Shea Jr. with their family.

A New Mrs. Gahagan

On Saturday, Annabelle Herbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Crawford Herbert of Pebble Beach, exchanged wedding vows with Michael Dennis Gahagan, son of Mr. and Mrs. George William Gahagan of San Francisco. The solemn mid-day ceremony at Carmel Mission Basilica was performed by the Reverend Roger J. Dieudonne before an altar flanked by arrangements of peach-colored gladioli.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Brussels lace and peau de soie, styled with a scalloped scoop neckline, empire waist, elbow-length sleeves and full chapel train. A crown of matching lace held her elbow-length English illusion net veil in place, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis, bouvardia and roses.

Mrs. Per Wehn (Lucie Herbert), matron of honor, was attired in a pink silk alpaca dress, fashioned like the bride's gown and trimmed with orange satin. Annabelle's other attendants were the bridegroom's sisters, Lissa Lynne Gahagan and Mrs. Chapin Hunt Jr., her sister-in-law, Mrs. George Lyon Herbert, and Suzanne Smith of Carmel. Of orange silk alpaca, trimmed with pink satin, their dresses were identical in style to that worn by the matron of honor.

Michael asked his brother, Mark Thomas Gahagan, to be his best man. The ushers were the bride's brothers, George Lyon Herbert and John Crawford Herbert, also Robert Russell Gallaway and Michael Carroll.

Mrs. Herbert greeted guests wearing a pink silk chiffon dress, complemented by a corsage of roses.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of soft green silk with matching coat, to which she pinned a corsage of roses.

Following a reception at the Herbert home in Pebble Beach, the couple left for Aspen, Colorado, to enjoy their mutual interest in skiing during their honeymoon. When they return, they will make their home in Menlo Park, where the bridegroom is a student at Stanford University.

The new Mrs. Gahagan, a graduate of Carmel High School, studied at Willamette University in Oregon and at the University of Florence in Italy.

With marriage, Michael relinquished his membership in The Bachelors of San Francisco. At Stanford, he is affiliated with Phi Gamma Delta. A graduate of the Overseas School of Rome, he studied at Occidental College and served with the Army Security Agency in the Far East and in Washington.
